

How to Effectively Advocate for Congressional Support for your Family's Adoption Case

Congressional offices typically receive hundreds of requests for constituent support each year. To help your case stand out and enlist the support you need, National Council For Adoption recommends the following:

Visit adoptioncouncil.org/legislators to locate your members of Congress and their contact information.

Call the district office closest to you and ask to speak to the staff member in charge of constituent support for intercountry adoption/immigration issues.

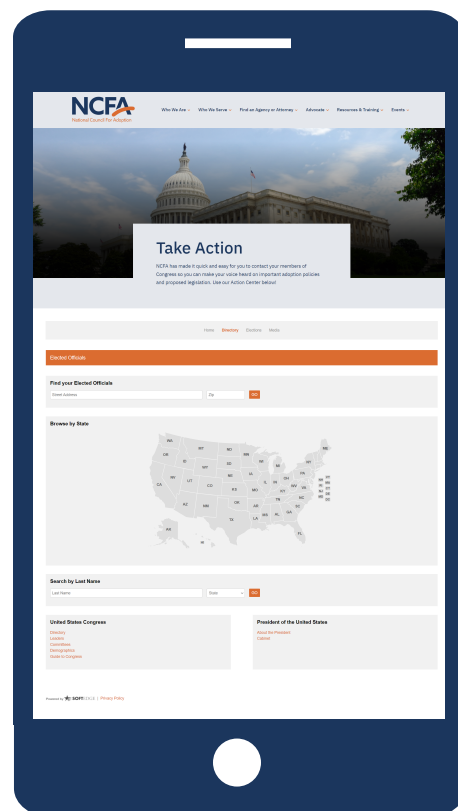

Explain your family's case and request their email address so you can send the one-page brief in follow up.

Use the one-page brief to guide your conversation. Conclude the call by indicating that you will be following up by email and ask when you can expect to receive an update from the office.

Send the one-page brief by email and postal mail.

The Ask

What is it that you want your Senator or Representative to do on your behalf?

We need the Senator's help.

We request that SENATOR / REPRESENTATIVE inquire with USCIS about our case, urging them to adjudicate with expediency and provide us with more specific, substantive communication.

We request prompt updates from the office so that we can coordinate follow up efforts with the appropriate offices.
